Padgett roast is well done

By ALSA DEWING

PAHOKEE — Some 200 cronies and colleagues, kith and kin, friends, past opponents and citizens gathered at the Prince Theatre Tuesday night for a dinner honoring Duncan Padgett "for 20 years of sacrifice and dedication."

The recently-retired 20-year mayor of Pahokee was lauded and applauded by all and roared by some. It was, however, a roast well-done on both sides with the "roasters" matching wits and anecdotes with his "roasters."

County Judge Don Adams, who served as master of ceremonies, led off by recalling the days he was Pahokee's municipal court prosecutor "practicing what was laughingly called law in what was laughingly called Judge Padgett's court."

Former city attorney Ralph Johnson described the ex-mayor's philosophy as "I've done it, now you tell me how we're gonna get away with it," Padgett's driving and his penchant for playing practical jokes were among the chief topics of the ribbing.

In a brief biography given by Bruce Bowe, Padgett was referred to as "the dean of Glades area politicians." Bowe traced Padgett's life from his arrival in 1914 from Ft. Lauderdale to what was then known as "Smith's Camp" at the age of nine, working with his father first as a commercial fisherman and then farming on Padgett Island for 35 years before becoming mayor in 1960.

Along with the jobs Padgett was also frequently cited during the evening for his contributions to civic improvements, and his charitable giving.

"I'd be up here a long time if I recalled everything, he did," Johnson told the audience.

Also on the roster of roasters were Padgett's brother-in-law, John Dulaney, J. Ray Hatten, Arthur Nagler, Larry Tucker, Harriet Selden, Nola Nagler, Tina Elliott, County Commissioner Bill Bailey, newly-elected mayor and former councilman Norma Norman, Dee Lucie, and Nancy and Milton Carpenter.

Some impromptu remarks were added by Manning Keene who said he had left his hospital bed to attend the dinner.

Commissioner Bailey presented Padgett with a proclamation issued by the five county commissioners. Mayor Norman presented him with a watch on behalf of the city council and city employees and a "gift of love" from the citizens of Pahokee — a trip to Mexico.

On behalf of the Palm Beach County Bar Association, Judge Adams presented Padgett with the Liberty Bell Award.

The program climaxed with the unveiling of a portrait of Padgett painted by Ann Tyler of Belle Glade, which will be displayed in the Pahokee city hall.

The appreciation was expressed by the Rev. Donald Padgett, one of the two Padgett sons.

Also attending were County Commissioner Frank Foster, Finky Young of Glen Ridge, representing the Municipal League, and George Frost, Palm Beach town manager.

The last word was given the guest of honor who said he was reminded of the id at a funeral who, after hearing the eulogy, asked the preacher if he would open the coffin again because "I think I must be at the wrong funeral."

Planning committee for the affair included Judge Adams, Dr. Harris Blumberg, principal of Pahokee Elementary School; Mrs. Elliott, Dale Milia, Mr. and Mrs. Nagler and Mrs. Selden.

Smallest violation fine set

BELLE GLADE — Property owners who ignore orders from the city's Code Enforcement Board to clean up their properties and fail to contact the board face a minimum fine of $100.

Meanwhile, owners of two properties already assessed $1100 apiece for noncompliance could have their fines substantially reduced because they have partially complied with the CEB directives.

In a joint session of the five-member board with city commissioners last Wednesday, the CEB members defended their actions in levying the $1100 fines against Carrie and Artie Harper and E.T. "Pony" and Sarah Phillips while Mayor Ralph Kirk and Commissioner Tom Altman protested the excessiveness of the penalties.

All of the commissioners except Vice Mayor Claude Thidell said they had been contacted by the two heavily-fined property owners.

A review of the procedures leading to the fines was given by the CEB chairman, Pedro Gonzalez, pointing out that the Harpers and Phillips had each been sent two registered letters one month apart plus a third notice hand delivered by a uniformed policeman directing them to appear at the May 13 CEB hearing. All notices were ignored, he indicated.

"We've given them more than ample time to correct the situation but none showed any interest. We need to make them aware," said Gonzalez, adding "I think we've accomplished what we intended — we got attention."

But Altman argued that there are "levels of attention getting" and that he felt between a $50 fine assessed one property owner and the $1100 fined the others "we've missed a lot of ranges in between."

Altman was referring to a $50 fine levied owners of one property who had subsequently complied with a CEB order to clean up an overgrown lot.

The owners are Mr. and Mrs. H. Wayne Carter, inadvertently referred to as Mr. and Mrs. H.W. Harper in the May 21 issue of The Herald-Observer.

CEB member Mike Zumpf acknowledged that a fine which amounts to ten percent of the property value is the equivalent of "confiscation" but, he added, "We've got to have people's compliance for the board to work."

He pointed out that the complainants should have contacted the Code Enforcement Board instead of going to the commissioners.

The purpose of the code enforcement Board is to enforce the city's building code and it serves in the capacity of a quasi-court with powers to levy fines of up to $500 a day for continued violations.

During the two and a half hour workshop, commissioners and board members attempted to define what would be considered "reasonable" fines that would also be effective.

Discussion also touched on imposing heavier fines where public safety was a concern but was countered by Gonzalez who pointed out that overgrown lots provide breeding grounds for rats and snakes and that litter invites children's curiosity, thus providing a danger.

At the recommendation of City Attorney John Baker, the two boards agreed on a rewording of the notices sent to property owners being charged with violations to inform them that if they fail to appear or respond to the enforcement board and a violation is confirmed by evidence, a minimum fine of $100 will be assessed.

Because the board also has the discretionary power to reduce fines within the 30-day period of their being levied, board members directed City Planner Joseph Fay to deliver written notice to those property owners previously fined $1100 that "a substantial reduction" would be "favorably considered" if they complied by the next board hearing, June 10, and appeared at the hearing.

In the suspicious Confirmed Department: I should've been there was a reason for my high blood pressure, ulcers, heart flutters, mal de mer, heartburn and dizziness...not to mention the occasional acute attack of the Woolly Bullies.

The word is stress and it was all hanging out for the world to see in a recent newspaper article brought to me by a fellow laborer in the vineyard of news reporting.

In the article, the reporter reminded a list of things doctors agree can cause stress, most of them dealing with problems on the job.

It sounded like a job description of editing a weekly paper...more specifically the Herald-Observer.

As a public service, I'm listing the items mentioned.

• A job that calls for frequent changes in physical locale and travel. Why, shoot, sometimes I have to travel all the way to Sand Cut.

• The feeling of constant time pressure and deadlines. Doesn't everybody?

• The feeling of being obligated to certain people or the organization. I don't know how you'd get certain people to sign you paycheck every week if you didn't act obligated, even if you don't actually feel that way. Just kidding. Boss, I'm obligated, I'm obligated.

• If the work you have to do has a high risk error, and very serious consequences if error occurs. (For example, a surgeon.) Durn Tootin'. I can easily recall the serious consequences, for example the need for a surgeon the time I needed someone's foot removed from my rear end when I'd misapplied their name once to often.

• If the job has either an overwhelming amount of things that must be done and/or a very high quality of work that must be constantly maintained. YOU try writing the equivalent of a small book every week without making a few errors in spelling, grammar and even fact. Like they say, a doctor buries his mistakes, a lawyer's mistakes are hidden behind bars but an editor's mistakes are right out in front of God and everybody, published for the world to read.

• Frequent changes in technological systems or organizational structure. Better believe it. Why, it seems only yesterday we were all using manual typewriters. Then we switched to steam power. (It's not fun to have to stop in the middle of a page to go stoke the furnace.) Now we're thinking about electric typewriters and, sometime in the fuzzy future, maybe going over to the type of CRT setup they have on Lou Grant. That ain't even considering the turnover in personnel and after this column, I may add to that turnover.

• The physical conditions of an office can cause stress - if the office is messy, dirty, noisy, has no privacy, if work and storage space is not ample. Sounds like the doctors must've visited the Herald-Observer office but wanted to be kind in their description of working conditions.

• If the work routine is unpredictable. Go back two paragraphs. There's no need in repeating myself.

• If the work environment is very competitive. Lessee now, there's the other newspapers in the area, radio, TV and blubbergrams (You know, Telephone, Telegraph and Tell a Woman), not to mention three people inside the organization foolish enough to be trying to roll me for my job.

• If the purposes of the organization are vague, so that the individual worker does not know what the purposes are. That's been a problem with every newspaper I've ever worked for. There's some sort of natural force at work here, much like Murphy's Law, that states the communication in industry is in inverse proportion to the degree with which the company is involved in communications. On a newspaper, nobody knows nuttin' at no time.

• If the communications with the boss, co-workers and subordinates are not good, leading to a lack of cooperation. See above paragraph.

• The lack of ability to control who gains access to you, either by phone or in person, can throw off a schedule and create stress. So who has any control over anything that happens around here?

• If your level of responsibility doesn't jive with your self-image, or if you have responsibility without the authority to carry it out. Personally, I believe I should be owner of this outfit but then I've been known to have delusions of adequacy in other areas. More than the disparity in responsibility, though, is the disparity in what I'm paid and what I think I'm worth. Personally, I think I'm worth something in the neighborhood of $50,000 a year, compared to the $29 a week I get paid. On the other hand, the boss may not think I'm worth the $29 so I'm gonna let discretion tell the better part of valor.

• Off the job, the doctors mentioned a few other things. If you are overweight, smoke, abuse alcohol or don't get exercise, every intelligent person knows that you are making yourself sick. Wonder how they know so much about me. Maybe that's the reason I've been keeping the manufacturers of Maalox and Rolaids after!

The Catch 22 of Alcohol abuse

by
H.G. Duncan

I was still in the Marine Corps when we had our national awareness of the "drinking problem." With the usual knee-jerk reaction, the military began vigorously rooting out the drinking problem, providing them with counseling, treatment and a great deal of embarrassment.

I began to sense a wrong being done, and after a lot of thinking and observing, I discovered that the tag of "problem drinker" was being misapplied about as often as it was correctly used.

There is a built in fallacy which results from the simplicity of the statement, "The last person to admit he has a drinking problem is the problem drinker himself." I know of another category which would be just as reluctant to admit to drinking problem, and that is the guy who does not have a drinking problem. However, he has no defense once he has been tagged. The accusation itself, regardless of the qualifications of the tagger, renders totally without credibility his denial. As a result of my experience in dealing with the problem drinkers (real and imagined) in the military, and judging from my observations of civilian life, I seriously doubt that we have as many alcoholics as we think we have.

In educating the public to the "problem" a number of "self-inventory" tests have been devised so that the individual drinker, in the privacy of his basement saloon, can figure out whether or not he is a bonafide drunk. As the years go by, these tests get broader. I envision a day when we will all be consumed by self-loathing and guilt over the results of such tests.

Below is an example I have composed which may be the test of the future. Take a couple of minutes and give yourself this test. If you answer two or more questions "Yes", then, my friend, you've got a drinking problem.

DADDY DUNCAN'S DRINKING-PROBLEM SELF-INVENTORY

1. If at a cocktail party, and after several drinks, someone calls you a number of obscene names, some of which reflect on your ancestry, would you become angry?
2. If on a hot summer day in 95 degree heat you become tired, hot, sweaty, and close to dying of thirst from mowing the lawn, would the thought of a frosty bottle of beer seem attractive to you?
3. Would you have trouble putting the key in the lock after consuming twenty-three martinis?
4. If after a prolonged happy-hour with the guys you return home to find out that your daughter is in love with and pregnant by a long-haired, foul-smelling, perverted, punk-rock-guitarist junkie, would you become irritable?

5. If your wife asks you to help her in supervising a birthday party for your five year old daughter and thirty-five of her little friends, would you have a tendency to escape to a neighborhood bar?

6. Do you find Billy Carter to be less of a "character" since his self-imposed abstinence?

7. If you unexpectedly ran into an old Army buddy with whom you shared the rigors of combat and who saved your life, and if he said "let's go have a beer," would you have an impulse to go with him?

8. If after completing a difficult, time-consuming, self-fulfilling job for which you have received genuine and elaborate praise the boss asks you to have a drink with him, would you be tempted to do so?

9. If at a reunion of a family of 165 teetotalers and two "others", should Cousin Willie offer you a drink out of sight of the rest of the group, would you accept?

10. Do you enjoy drinking beer more when watching a pro football game than when watching the President's State of the Union address?

11. If the mechanic on the Sunshine Parkway tells you the ominous noise in your engine was merely misaligned bolt which he fixed in thirty seconds for no charge and he says, "Just buy me a beer sometime," would you want to do so right then?

12. If at the conclusion of an audit by the Internal Revenue Service the agent smiles and announces that you have an unexpected two-thousand dollar return due you, would you want to have a drink with him?

13. If at a reception following the marriage of your last daughter to a successful brain surgeon someone offered you a glass of champagne

To those who remembered, those who died:

Monday, May 26, was celebrated as Memorial Day, although the calendar still shows May 30 as the official holiday.

There were scattered observances in our area, specifically at Orlona in Glades County and at Ridgeland Cemetery in Jewtown.

Memorial Day was established in 1868 by General John A. Logan, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, in remembrance of soldiers who had died in the Civil War.

Since then, the United States has fought the Spanish-American War, World War One, World War Two, the Korean War, and the Vietnam War, and other lesser conflicts.

border conflict in 1916, and the Dominican Republic in the early 1960s. In all of these, American servicemen lost their lives.

Too often, we forget that the men and women who died in the service of their country were once just like us, living breathing persons who enjoyed all of the joys and pleasures of life.

Many of those who died in the Second World War were fuzzy-cheeked boys of 17 or 18, who fell on beaches no one had heard of back in the 1940s, places like Saipan, Anzio, and Normandy.

Were they alive today, they would be entering middle age, enjoying their grandchildren, and looking back on all they had accomplished in a free land.

Those who died in Korea at places like Inchon and Pusan, would be among the most productive point of their lives, when their earning power is greatest and the rewards of hard work are paying the largest dividends.

And then we have the Vietnam-era soldier, sailor, Marine and Airman, the least appreciated fighting man of all.

The fighting man who gave his life in Vietnam would still, be young today, had he survived. He would be raising a family, making ends meet, and like his other brothers in uniform who survived the war — be savoring life just a little more than those who never risked all.

Memorial Day is the one time each year that we recognize the sacrifice of those who are no longer with us. When their country needed them they did their duty.

Regardless of how controversial any war may have been, there is no question about their bravery and purpose.

Some may question the patriotism and purpose of our country. But there has never been a shortage of heroes. The rows of white crosses are proof of that. Eighty-two crosses went up April 24 with the hostage rescue in Iran.

There is no way that we can thank those who died for their country. All we can do is remember their sacrifice. And be prepared to defend the country's freedom if they once did it's not better to be ignorant.

One of the reasons, for instance, in opposition to a constitutional amendment which would guarantee the right to privacy to citizens of the Sunshine State is that it would grant complete freedom to consenting adults in their sexual relations.

There may be good reasons for opposing the privacy amendment, or not. Law enforcement officers claim it would make their investigations much harder and would result in a plethora of law suits over wire tapping and so forth.

But what possible interest could our lawmakers have in the sexual relations of two consenting adults... unless they consider themselves to be taxpayer voters?

Legislative laughs...

It's been a truism for years that when the state legislature is in session, one is well advised to keep a close watch on one's wallet but this session let us know quickly we'd better keep the other eye on Tallahassee.

Some of the laws being passed these days can only make one wonder at the reasoning behind them but some of the reasons being offered is enough to make us wonder if it's not better to be ignorant.

One of the reasons, for instance, in opposition to a constitutional amendment which would guarantee the right to privacy to citizens of the Sunshine State is that it would grant complete freedom to consenting adults in their sexual relations.

There may be good reasons for opposing the privacy amendment, or not. Law enforcement officers claim it would make their investigations much harder and would result in a plethora of law suits over wire tapping and so forth.

But what possible interest could our lawmakers have in the sexual relations of two consenting adults... unless they consider themselves to be taxpayer voters?

Then there was Senator Joe Carlucci of Jacksonville, who explained that he voted for a limit to the increase of taxes a local government can impose on property owners by saying a good parent will discipline his child.

That infers that the state is the all-wise parent and the cities and counties around the state are reckless children who need to be curbed lest they get carried away with the taxes they impose on their residents.

And that comes in a year when the legislature is seriously considering granting a $2,000 annual pay raise to teachers who are employed by the counties, without funding the pay raises.

The raises, needless to say, will come from property taxes imposed by the school boards, who had their tax caps lowered last year while the voters decided they would grant themselves another tax break by increasing their homestead exemption for school taxes from $5,000 to $25,000, further lowering the amount of taxes a school district can impose.

It's enough to make one question who's reckless and who needs discipline.

Hendry County number one in buying

The Survey of Buying Power for all Florida Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas and 67 counties includes some surprising statistics.

The survey, prepared by Sales Management Magazine, and released to state newspapers as a service by the Florida Chamber of Commerce, shows that Hendry County is number one in effective buying income.

And if the figures are accurate, Hendry County is number one by a substantial margin.

The median household income in effective buying power for Hendry County is listed as an astounding $50,141. Number two in the state is Brevard County with a mere $15,876.

A call to the Florida Chamber of Commerce to verify these figures Monday afternoon, May 26, brought the explanation that Hendry County is a very rich agricultural area.

It should be noted that the median, rather than average, income figure is listed in the survey. A median is the middle number of a given sequence.

The survey lists Hendry County as having 16,500 residents and 5,700 households.

A whopping 3,317 of those households are listed as having $50,000 or more of effective buying income. If this is correct, Hendry County is a par with or ahead of many larger counties in the number of families with EBI of $50,000 or more.

Among these larger counties which Hendry Outstrips in the number of $50,000 or more EBI families are Volusia, Manatee, Polk, Manatee, Collier, Lee, Leon, and Alachua Counties.

In fact, only Hendry County is ahead of the 67 counties in Florida in the $50,000 EBI category families. The second major break out of the survey, for families earning $25,000 to $49,999, totals 1,283 families. This total is greater than the remaining families in the survey, which includes 125 families with EBI less than $3,000 annually.

Retail sales for Hendry County were estimated at $59.5 million in 1978 and are expected to almost double by 1983 to $111 million.

Glades County, with an estimated population of 5,100 and 1,500 households, is shown with a median household EBI of $8,983.

There were no families listed in the $50,000 or more EBI group, but 112 were listed in the $25,000 to $49,999 category. Having less than $3,000 EBI and 230 Glades County families.

Glades County's 1978 retail sales were estimated at $3.7 million and are expected to increase to $6.4 million in 1983.

DOE to review allocations

By Congressman Skip Batelle

WASHINGTON Item: The Department of Energy ordered Standard Oil Co., of Ohio, to raise its gasoline prices 10 cents per gallon.

Item: A Florida service station operator, unable to make ends meet on the amount of gasoline he has to sell each month, appeals to the Energy Department in Atlanta for another 20,000 gallons a month but is denied; he appeals then to Washington.

Item: Long gas lines, closed stations, and irate motorists are the order of the day in South Florida in January, February and part of March — thanks to an Energy Department allocation system which refuses to recognize that some areas of the country are growing faster than others.

These three items, taken together or separately, should be enough to destroy anyone's faith in the Department of Energy as a viable part of the solution to our energy crisis.

But DOE's upper echelon bureaucrats don't see things that way. They see rules and regulations, guidelines and formulas. They don't see people. They don't see the long lines in Florida in the winter they don't see areas where the population may increase by as much as 10 per cent a year. All they see is an allocation formula. Never mind the confusion and chaos it has caused, not until the situation reaches the critical stage.

Well, we must have reached the critical stage because DOE now says it will take a look at its regulation regarding allocation increases and maybe it'll offer some changes to help the small businessman.

Let's hope so. Let's hope they come up with some full scale changes to make it easier for station operators with a proven need to get an increase in their gasoline allocation. Because if they don't, January, February and March of 1981 will be a repeat of this past winter.

Portugal leads way

Portugal, one of the most self-dependent of America's allies, was far out in front of its European neighbors in demonstrating its compassion for the hostages held in the U.S. Embassy in Iran. Recently, Portugal banned all trade with Iran, making it the first nation to support U.S. sanctions. Portugal obtains 21 percent of its oil from Iran, spending more than $132 million in 1978. Premier Francisco de Carreira said the embargo would be in effect until the hostages are released.

In addition, the premier said all Portuguese ships would be barred from transiting embargoed goods from other countries to Iran and that financial transactions and participation of Portuguese firms in Iranian industry would be halted immediately.

Portugal, in brief, gave definition to the "solidarity" that President Carter seeks in arousing the turbulent eastern leadership to release the hostages — over last November.

In the meantime, the United Nations Market Committee, despite their condemnation of the Iranian actions, dragged their feet on initiating their own economic sanctions.

The statesmanlike gesture of self-sacrificed Portugal sets a useful example for its global neighbors.

My parents and I were treated to the Hendry County Hospital emergency room on April 24th for minor surgery on an auto accident.

I want to comment on the wonderful care provided by the medical staff. They could not have been more kind and caring. I am proud to be a part of this fine staff.

Very truly yours, Beverly Lane

I've read talk and letters seem to indicate that the refugee and illegal immigration situation deserves our criticism.

The national, non-profit, tax-deductible grassroots organizations have been trying to develop workable solutions through research, public relations, lobbying, legal suits, development of legislation, and education.

Let's not be lulled by the "American Immigration Reform" states as its purpose is to end illegal immigration into the United States.

Around the Big O With Lorne Racicot

Just so that everyone is aware of the Summer Locking Schedule at Clewiston the following is published for all interested parties:

• The locks will commence operations at 5:30 a.m. and cease at 9 p.m. at which hour they will be closed for the night.

• In the event of any situation during the operating period (heavy rains and wind tides) that would cause the water level at the lock to reach 16 feet, gates will be immediately closed. The locks will, however, be in operation for boat traffic which may pass in or out.

• Any time you have a question concerning the locks call the lockmaster at 983-8911. The lockmaster, Mrs. Kristy Cochran or either of her assistants, Mrs. Jean Childers or Mrs. Judy Cannington, will give you the status.

Boating Safety

That season is here again. You know the one when sudden line squalls pop up without warning. The accompanying winds are not zephyr-like either. Winds to 40 mph are not uncommon. Alert and weatherwise boaters and fishermen constantly monitor the weather and heed for cover, or at least protected water, at the first sign of bad weather in the offing.

All Marina operators I have talked with the last several days agree that fishermen should get out early in the morning and be land-side by noon. Normally, squalls have run their course by 4 p.m. at which time boating and fishing pleasures can be resumed. Keeping a "weather-eye" peeled is not just a hollow expression.

Marvin Vance of Clewiston Marina and Tom Childress of the Jolly Roger Marina are agreed that the best bass fishing has been from first light until around 11 a.m.

They also concur that the best areas are the peppergreen beds in 6 plus feet of water on the open lake from about number 98 through number 92 markers. That will put you West of Ritta Island. Spoon & Skirt combinations, small diving plugs, spinner baits and plastic worms are producing well. Live shiners on a tight line can pay big dividends for the patient fisherman.

In the Belle Glade area, most bass are being caught along the lake edges. Gordon Corbin of Slim's Fish Camp advises that the fish are holding in 5 to 6 feet of water and are taking Plastic Worms well. Most of your fish at this particular time will be yearlings in the one to 2 1/4 pound category with the odd whopper thrown in as evidenced by the 11 pound, 15 ounce beauty taken by John Hendricks of Belle Glade on a plastic worm.

Bluegill are hot right now and the better catches are coming from the heaviest cover you can find in the West Wall area and the Rim Canal.

Live crickets will get the job done. Most fishermen prefer using a pre-set slip cork rig for this kind of fishing. Small spinner baits (beetle spin, etc.) live worms and fly-rod and popping bug combos will also produce well.

The shellcracker are there. Finding this live worm lovin' rascal is easier said than done. The combination of deeper water levels and city water make it very difficult to find bedding areas. When someone does find a bedding area you can bet it is the best kept secret in the County.

Tip of the Week

When you are facing an oncoming big wake from a passing boat SLOW DOWN and HEAD DIRECTLY INTO IT. Angle approaches can literally swamp smaller craft.

GAARC gets University of North Carolina grant

BELLE GLADE — The Glades Area Association for Retarded Citizens (GAARC) was informed this week they have been chosen as one of only 52 research sites around the country for the University of North Carolina's Frank Porter Graham's Child Development Center.

According to Rickie McCoy, ARC Infant Specialist, the University of North Carolina's Institute for Research on Early Education of the Handicapped feels the preschool and infant population served by the Glades ARC is very representative of the population.

"We serve a very multi-racial and ethnic population in our program," Dr. McCoy said. "We include children and families from all social-economic backgrounds...children with Mexican-American, Cuban, Black-American and Anglo-Saxon backgrounds are included in our programs."

"The research we will be involved in is innovative and the results will have widespread implications for all educators of exceptional children," said Dr. McCoy, who has her doctorate work from Florida State University and is certified by the state as an educational specialist in special education.

Jay Seider named Coach of Year

BELLE GLADE—Eight members of the Glades Central girls track team were named to the All-Suncoast Conference West 1980 team and Coach Jay Seider was named Coach of the Year for the third time in the five years there has been girls' competition.

Seider and the girls were honored last week by conference coaches, one week after the girls placed third in the state meet among the best of the rest of Class AAA teams. Seider was also named Coach of the Year in 1975 and 1976, the first two years of girls' competition in the county.

Named to the All-Conference team were:

Sheila Nix in the shotput. Her best put of the year was 47'4" at the state meet in Winter Park. Gloria Stewart in the discus, with a best throw of the year of 87'10". Sheila Ashley in the long jump, with a best distance of 18'6". Carmen Crawford in the 100 yard dash. Her best time was 1:11 seconds. Barbara Bostick in the 400 yard relay team. Sophie Dukes on the mile relay team. Cynthia Harrell, also on the mile relay team. Carla Redwood in the 330 yard hurdles, with a best time of 4:22 seconds. Seider said seven school records were broken during the past season by team members, including the shotput by Sheila Nix, the long jump by Sheila Ashley, the 330 yard hurdles by Carla Redwood, the mile run by Betty McClarin, with a time of 5:31; the two mile run by Betty McClarin with a time of 12:25; the 440 yard relay by Barbara Bostick, Tanya Wilkerson; Sheila Ashley and Carmen Crawford in a time of 50.1 seconds and the mile relay by Sheila Ashley, Sophia Dukes, Carla Redwood and Cynthia Harrell in a time of 4:08.

Seider noted that Miss Ashley is the only senior on the team and he expects a stronger team next year, particularly in the light of a batch of eight graders expected to transfer from Lake Shore Middle School's county champion Roadrunners team. "I'll be getting added depth and we should be stronger and faster," Seider said, "if nothing unforeseen happens."

After the season was over, Seider said he took three of the girls, Sheila Nix, Carmen Crawford and Gloria Stewart, to the Golden South Classic meet Saturday. The meet is held in Orlando and sponsored by the Orlando Sentinel-Star Newspaper and attracts athletes from all over the south.

Two of the girls placed in their events, with Nix coming in second in the shotput. She heaved the eight pound ball 42'9" and was outdistanced only by a girl from Brandon, who is the State Class AAAA champion and who set a new meet record with a heave of 45'6". Miss Crawford placed sixth in the 100 meter dash with a time of 12.5 seconds. Seider said the metric equivalent of the 100 yard dash is approximately 10 yards longer so the time was about the equivalent of her best 100 yard time.

Miss Stewart was eighth in the discus throw with a toss of 114 feet.

Seider said the meet attracted athletes from Texas, Georgia, Jamaica and Tennessee, as well as from Florida. He said there were some ex-olympians in the competition.

"This is the meet's fourth year," he said, "and every year it gets a little better."

Jamboree hosted

BELLE GLADE—The Glades Day School football team will host a spring jamboree Thursday evening, according to Athletic Director Tom King, with the Gates taking on LaBelle and Moore Haven while Lake Placid plays the other two teams.

Glades General accredited

BELLE GLADE—Glades General Hospital has been awarded a one-year accreditation from the Board of Commissioners of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

"The Joint Commission commends Glades General Hospital's efforts towards providing quality patient care," wrote John E. Milton, FACHA, Deputy Director, Hospital Accreditation Program, in a letter to Patrick Lennon, Administrator, Glades General Hospital.

King said the first quarter of the jamboree will be played between Lake Placid and Moore Haven, followed in the second quarter by competition between Glades Day and LaBelle, in the third quarter between Lake Placid and LaBelle and in the final period between Glades Day and Moore Haven.

The jamboree will begin at 7 p.m. and tickets are priced at $1.50 for students and $2.50 for adults.

Meanwhile, King said season tickets will be available this week at the school administration office, good for admission to all junior varsity and varsity football games next year. He said prices hadn't been set as of press time but would be set by the time they went on sale.

Mr. Mills, who was employed by the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, Inc. from 1964 to 1973, was killed instantly when he picked up a broken 740 volt electric line, which he believed to be dead, on May 7.

At the time of his death, Mills was a contractor and was working on a job where he had contracted with an electric company to keep the right of way under the company's lines clear. A tree fell across the lines, snapping two of them in different places, just before the incident.

His nephew, Paul Mills, was also on the job and witnessed the accident from a distance of about 300 yards. His son, Jerry, was also working on the job about a mile away. Paul Mills said his employee—uncle killed the wire first, apparently determined it was dead and picked it up.

"He got the wire up about here (his chest)," Mills said, "then the current hit him. It knocked him backward onto the ground with the wire still in his hand lying on his chest. I saw a ball of fire when the current hit and then there was fire all around his chest as he lay on the ground."

Mr. Mills lived all his life in the Andalusia area except for the nine years he spent in Belle Glade. He was 58 years old at the time of his death.

Mr. Mills was a World War II veteran. He was a member of the Opp Masonic Lodge and Masonic rites were held as part of his funeral services. Burial was in the Bethel Cemetery at Belle Glade.

Survivors include his wife, Mamie of Pahokee; sons, Kenneth and Eugene Lasiter, both of Belle Glade; Robert Lasiter of Langley Field, Va.; a daughter, Mrs. Wanda Sue Barnes of Pahokee, and three grandchildren.

Burial will be in Port Mayaca Cemetery, following the services. Pallbearers will be Milton Salvatore, Woody Salvatore, Kyle Hatfield, Cecil Phillips, Jim Binco and Alton Mills. Wetherington Funeral Home of Pahokee will be in charge of arrangements.

OTTIS LAWSON—Funeral services for Otis Lawson, former director of utilities for the City of Pahokee, were held Saturday, May 25 at the Church of Christ in "West Palm Beach" with Brother Dean Reynolds officiating.

Mr. Lawson, 72, was a native of Eaton, Ark. and a resident of Palm Beach County since 1955. He made his home at 12991 S. Colled. Canal Rd. and died Thursday, May 22 at Good Samaritan Hospital emergency room.

He was a member of Palm Beach Lakes Church of Christ. Survivors include his widow, Jessie of Loxahatchee; a son, Tommy Lawson, who is in the U.S. Navy Norfolk, Va.; a daughter, Mrs. Faye Dallas of Loxahatchee, and two grandchildren.

Weekend's gusting winds were unusual

BELLE GLADE — Three periods of gusting high winds that arose suddenly over the Memorial Day weekend were more than unusual, according to Dr. Robert Allen of the Agricultural Research and Experiment Center (AREC), there were the first times he's seen anything like it since he's been at the center.

The winds came at mid-morning and mid-evening on Sunday and again about 6:45 a.m. Monday and they arose within minutes to reach as high as 45 miles per hour, Dr. Allen said.

What made them unusual, he said, wasn't the velocity; it was the suddenness with which they struck, showing how the wind Monday morning rose from about 5 mph to 42 mph in approximately three minutes.

The first occurrence, Sunday morning, saw the winds rising from 13 to 35 mph in virtually no time at all, with the reading on a graph showing an increase in a straight vertical line. The graphs are broken into 15-minute segments and the majority of the high winds in all three cases were all contained within a single 15-minute segment, then dying off rapidly, to zero mph in the cases Sunday night and Monday morning.

Dr. Allen said he suspected the three windy periods were the tailwinds of tornadoes sighted in Hendry County.

The principality of Monaco consists of only 370 acres.

Discipline problems can run the gamut from classroom to bullpen for Pahokee High School's ag teacher Martha Serraes.

Martha Serraes passes a rope up to two of her students, eager to take on the job of restraining the bull. Restraining the boys in their enthusiasm and derring-do can require even more patience on her part than dealing with the bull.

Martha gets ready to persuade the balky bull that swallowing eight four-inch capsules is for his own good. Staff photos by Alisa Dewing.

Cattfish, bulls and boys add up somehow

By AILSA DEWING

It takes a good deal of perseverance, tenacity and adaptability to interview Martha Serraes now that she's the vocational-agriculture teacher at Pahokee High School.

It was easier to talk to her when she was art teacher and tennis coach.

Martha took over as PHS vo-ag teacher last April. It was last week when we caught up with her and asked her to save a "free period" for an interview on the hows and whys of a woman ag teacher.

For most teachers, a free period is one without a class to teach, a time for grading papers and catching up with the paperwork. Wrapping fish hardly ever enters into it.

But everything and anything can take over Martha's free periods and invariably does, she says. So we found her in the midst of a fish-wrapping session, surrounded by students packaging fresh catfish for the freezer while she was busily making phone calls.

The fish, donated by a student's father, was being stashed away for an upcoming FFA fish-fry. The phone calls were to get permission from other teachers for a group of boys to cut class and help round up a sick bull for an appointment with the veterinarian.

Our interview, which hadn't yet begun, moved into the cab of the ag department's pick-up truck. Both came to an abrupt halt less than a block away, as the driver of an oncoming pick-up waved her down. He had cases of corn for the fish-fry. What should he do with it? After Martha shouted out directions to solve that problem, we were off again and headed for the PHS ag farm.

"You should have been here yesterday," said Martha. "We had to get a calf out of the canal and we got the truck stuck in a canfield." She held out a stiff finger. "I don't know if it's broken or just sprained. I've got to get to a doctor this afternoon."

It seems that among the various things that had happened to her finger, the calf has stepped on it. We picked up again on the interview while the pick-up buckety-bucketed down a farm road, and my pen took on a life of its own whenever it touched my notepad.

There was hardly time enough to write down all the answers anyway. Martha's enthusiasm for her job is evident as she reels off the projects students are involved in: swine and cattle raising, sugarcane, vegetables, and field corn; future plans: more cane, more cattle, more acreage planted.

Although Martha graduated from Florida State University with a degree in art, farming has always been a love of her life.

As a teenager she and a friend planted and tended a ten-acre vegetable garden one summer. Her hobby is raising Arabian show horses and she and husband Louis—PHS social studies teacher—raise chickens and a cow they bottle-fed at the start. The calf was an appreciation gift to Martha from the FFA.

In years past Martha and Louis have helped with FFA projects, especially the annual rodeo.

When the high school lost its third vo-ag teacher in the two years since Pahokee's Mayor Norma Norman retired from the job, Martha applied for it. And got it.

"I love it," she says. "I look forward to going to work every day—every day is something unique."

This summer she will begin work on her master's degree in agriculture at the University of Florida. Meanwhile, she reads everything she can find and seeks experts' advice.

The first time she introduced herself to a group of farmers as an ag teacher, "they about died laughing," she admits.

For the next 45 minutes we watched Martha and five ag students coax, shove, rope and outwit a sick and feisty Charolais bull into a cattle squeeze where the vet could examine it.

When the vet left, Martha and the boys knew what their next project was at the end of the class day: getting eight four-inch capsules into the bull.

Meanwhile it was back to the classroom and 60 vo-ag students who are learning the economics and bookwork of agribusiness along with carrying out their swine and cattle projects, repairing fences, maintaining the farm and pastures.

And, of course, getting ready for the fish fry to raise funds for the FFA.

Dianne Williams--her broccoli soup is a winner

Diane Williams, a Belle Glade miss who likes to cook without recipes, is a first-place winner in the county-wide "Dairy Days" recipe contest.

Miss Williams won top honors with her Broccoli Cream Almondine Soup in the casserole and main dish category of the contest, conducted this month by the Palm Beach County Extension Home Economics Department.

If Diane's recipe is selected among the top favorites in the state she will move into the statewide competition to be held June 10 at Daytona Beach.

A program assistant with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Diane says she submitted her recipe to the contest, sponsored by Dairy Farmers, Inc., because it's a favorite with her friends and family.

"I'd had broccoli soup in restaurants but I thought I could make it better if I tried," Diane, who's 23 years old and single.

Last Friday Diane found herself among the finalists at West Palm Beach, cooking for the judges. They liked her entry well enough to give her first prize and to submit it for statewide judging.

Like many good cooks, Diane doesn't follow recipes—neither her own—she's somewhat apprehensive that her recipe won't taste the same when it's made by someone else.

During the cook-off Diane says she was still cooking by tasting: "It wasn't quite this or it wasn't quite that," she says, so she adjusted the seasoning to her taste.

Glades residents can't yet share Diane's recipe. It will be available after the state competition, though.

Other winners in the county contest, as announced by Arjen C. Jones, county extension home economics agent, are: Category #1: Casseroles and Main Dishes: Second Place, Doris Gaunt of Lantana; Third Place, Elaine Delo of Boca Raton.

Category #2: Vegetable Dishes and Salads: First Place, Jack LaRosa of Lake Worth; Second Place, Ruth Hiers of West Palm Beach;

Third Place, Evelyn Thomas, West Palm Beach; Fourth Place, Evelyn Giles, Boca Raton.

Category #3: Desserts: First Place, Joan Diamond of Boca Raton; Second Place, Maurice Rault of Palm Beach; Third Place, Carol Foullette, Lake Worth; Fourth Place, Mickey McClary of West Palm Beach; and Fifth Place, Caroline Andolen of Lake Park.

First place winning recipes in each category will be sent to the state "Dairy Days" cook-off where they again will be judged on the basis of nutritional value, creativity, economical use of product, attractiveness, flavor and texture. The statewide Dairy

Days contest is scheduled for 2, June 10 at the Dayton Hilton Hotel, Daytona Beach, Florida, at which 15 selected winning recipes from the entire state of Florida will be evaluated.

DIANE WILLIAMS

The long Memorial Day weekend is finally over and I understand the traffic fatalities totals were even higher than expected. It was hoped that the higher gas prices would keep more people off the roads this weekend thereby reducing the risk of traffic accidents, but that didn't prove to be true.

I hope you had a safe and happy weekend.

Graduation time is drawing close for many of our area seniors. We wish them all the best of luck in the future. If the graduation information that all of the area graduates filled in and returned to our office proves to be a good gauge of the future of these young adults, then Belle Glade can be proud. Many of the graduates plan to go on to college or technical school.

A large percentage of them plan to further their education at West Technical Education Center or Palm Beach Junior College Glades Campus.

Every year as the Seniors graduated at the high school I attended, the community was very concerned that the graduates not move away or attend colleges far from home. They never seemed to consider the fact that if the town offered more to a graduating student, the incentive to stay would be stronger.

We had no local junior colleges or technical schools for graduates to attend after high school graduation, and there were not enough jobs for the community to absorb the graduating population. So, Belle Glade can be proud that it offers the best possible atmosphere for graduating Seniors as far as colleges and technical schools go and also for jobs in the local job market.

Dean was called out of town recently due to an illness in his family. During the time that he was away we all found out just how hard hat man works. We all had a heavier workload than normal.

While Dean was gone he asked me to take care of his cat, Nibs. The first day I went to his house and opened the door, I could tell that Nibs—as used to having strangers open the door to her domain.

She came running down the hall as is probably normal for her when the master of the house returns after a long day, but as soon as she saw that I was not Dean, she started backing down the hallway as if to say, "Go away, you."

But I must admit, by the time I had tended to her for almost a week, she became very friendly.

I'm not sure if she warmed to me finally because of the feedings or because she lacked companionship, but I do know that by the end of the week, I had made a friend.

Joyner clinic June 6

Many residents enjoy raising exotic tropical fruits and these fill an important function in landscaping in that many of the trees have beautiful flowers as well as providing delicious edible fruits either seasonally or throughout the year on some varieties.

To assist county residents in recognizing and growing many of these exotic fruits found in our area, Gene Joyner, Urban Horticulturist, Palm Beach County Cooperative Extension Service, will conduct free, slide-illustrated seminar on tropical fruits for landscaping uses Friday, June 6 from 9:30 to 11 a.m., at the Belle Glade Extension Office Auditorium, 2875 North 441.

In addition to the slide-illustrated seminar, informative bulletins will be given out. For additional information call 683-7777 weekdays from 9:30 to 5:00.

Following the seminar, a plant clinic will be conducted from 11 a.m. until noon.

Anyone unable to come to the agricultural extension office may call in plant problems to 956-5511, extension 33, and Joyner will try to answer questions over the telephone.

EMPHASIS

"MYTH AMERICA"

An oft repeated "myth" is that an electric utility has a "guaranteed profit." One can find this erroneous statement in news journals. The fact is, a utility has a ceiling on its rate of return and only the opportunity to reach its allowable return.

Public utility regulation takes the place of competition. It is designed to insure that utilities do not make an excessive return on investment.

Briefly, the law allows public utilities an opportunity to earn a fair and reasonable return, an amount determined after lengthy public hearings. There is no guarantee of profit.

WITH LETTUCE, PICKLE, TOMATO AND 41,000 federal and state regulations. That's the number of decrees governing an American favorite, the hamburger. These stem from 200 laws and 11,000 precedent-setting court cases. Colorado State University estimates that regulations add 8 to 11 cents per pound to the cost of the hamburger.

SOLAR PROJECTS UP BY 24%

A survey of the utility industry's solar programs by the Electric Power Research Institute shows that the number of projects underway in 1979 increased by 24% over the previous year. Over 180 individual utility companies are involved and a commitment of about $20 million. This does not include other industry and government research.

FWWC ANSWERS THE QUESTION

The Florida Federation of Women's Clubs asked, "What does the FWWC have in common with electric utilities?" And answered, "We share a deep concern for finding solutions to the current energy situation." The Federation cited several Florida organizations and businesses, including Florida Power & Light, for outstanding support of energy conservation measures.

Arthritis phone-a-thon

Tina Phillips
D. Herring
to wed

By Jan Nagel

Barbara Clark knows the heartbreak of arthritis. Since she has been twelve years old she has suffered the pain and disfigurement of crippling rheumatoid arthritis in her hands.

Twenty-two years later, after 16 operations and artificial joints in both her hands, Barbara believes it is important to help educate people about the disease, perhaps so someone else can be spared the agony she has suffered.

For the last four years she has been the fundraising chairwoman for the Arthritis Foundation in the Glades area.

On Sunday, June 1 there will be three phone-a-thon centers to take pledges. First Bank of Clewiston 983-8191, Branch of Pahokee in Belle Glade 996-8000, and Bank of Pahokee 924-7162.

Local volunteers will man the phones, or you can personally call Barbara Clark with your contribution to the Foundation at 983-5387.

Because arthritis strikes one out of every 10 Americans, because it is the number one crippling disease, because it can affect children as well as adults, Mrs. Clark urges community members to participate in the upcoming phone-a-thon and pledge helping dollars.

Last year they raised $7,000 some of which will reach the arthritis treatment facility at Good Samaritan Hospital in West Palm Beach.

Call 924-2484 or 924-2828 for advance tickets or obtain tickets at the door.

Local delivery is also available by calling the above numbers. Proceeds will be used for improvements to the church roof, according to Lee D. Carbaugh, host pastor.

As a freshman I was too scared of flunking to think about what my parents had done to make college possible. As a sophomore trying to decide my major, I was too busy for gratitude. As a junior cramming for mid-years — there wasn't time for sentimental thoughts...

But with my senior year coming to its thrilling climax, there's nothing I want to say more than THANKS DAD, THANKS MOM.

Then during our baccalaureate service an awesome thought gripped me. Not only have my parents given me my education... they have given me my faith as well.

My quest for a college degree began in nursery school and kindergarten. It was just about that time when these same wonderful parents brought me to what would soon become OUR CHURCH.

My quest for a strong, sure faith began where it does often — in the BEGINNER'S Department.

CRIPPLING ARTHRITIS has taken its toll on Barbara Clark's hands. She has had the disease since she was 12 and has had 16 operations to try to stop its effects. To prevent this kind of crippling, Barbara urges donations be made to the Arthritis Foundation during Sunday's phone-a-thon.

Lately you might have noticed around your lawn and shrubbery a small, three-eighths inch black insect with a bright red thorax flying in tandem. These are love bugs and they are now in the midst of their spring mating flights. Love bugs have been in our area for a number of years and are found throughout Florida as well as the Gulf states. Flights of love bugs occur in our area in May and September and last approximately three to four weeks with the largest flight being in September.

Love bugs are harmless to man and feed on nectar of flowers. The problem is that they hover near highways and can very easily obscure a driver's vision when they are splattered on fast-moving vehicles.

Love bugs do not become active until about 10 a.m. and do not fly at all at night so if you are traveling and wish to avoid damage restrict travel to early in the morning or during the evening to avoid these insects.

To lessen potential damage to your automobile, place a protective screen, which can be purchased from service centers, over the grill and front area of the car. This will prevent love bugs from clogging up the cooling fans of your car radiator and causing overheating.

To help reduce love bugs sticking to car finishes you may use a light film of mineral or baby oil. The love bugs can be washed off much easier.

If love bugs are not removed from a car's finish relatively soon their body acids often will etch the car's paint.

Soaking the splattered insects with water prior to trying to remove them will make the job much easier. Also, waxing a car will help reduce love bug (Continued on Page 4)

Taking It From the Top

By REV. DAVID T. EVANS
Everglades Presbyterian Church

Students are graduating from high school and will be getting advice. Here is some more.

Life will be full of choices and decisions. These will need some basic and basic. Try these and see if there isn't a difference in life. They are free and any one can use them.

Is the choice based on love? Do you show love of God, self and neighbor? Is it caring, supporting and developing? Will it help the nation, community or others? If you can answer yes then go ahead.

Is it a responsible decision? Will it, in years to come, be one that you will be proud of? Is it a legal action? How will it affect your parents? How will it affect others? And finally, how will it affect your own life?

Choices we make can have a lasting effect on the lives of others and ourselves. As we get older we realize the way we treat others can be the making or the breaking of an individual's personality. Just as we have been lifted by someone's thoughtful remark so our remarks have a positive influence on one's success or failure.

When we have a chance, let us give positive pats on the back instead of a pat down. You will be amazed how much better you will feel and it hasn't cost you anything but a little thought. When you get a good pat, accept it and say thanks and you will feel better about yourself.

Is the decision a basis for growth? Every living plant, animal or person must grow. We grow by learning from our experiences. We grow by taking problems as challenges rather than stumbling blocks. If we have a problem we can avoid it or ignore it, hoping it will go away. A problem can be solved by analysis, gaining knowledge about it, deciding on several solutions and choosing the best one.

When you have decided on the best approach to the problem, then put your solution into action. The problem solved becomes a stepping stone in growth. Even if you don't solve it, you can use the experience for growth.

Let's be loving, responsible, positive and growing in our choices and decisions. Our lives, the lives of others and our communities will be better and you will like yourself better. The people around will like you better and even the community will be better. Isn't this a good way?

TANGY AND COLORFUL...molded chicken salad makes a main dish for a family meal or is fancy enough to serve luncheon guests.

June is dairy month and the American Dairy Association provides this meal-in-a-salad to serve during sultry summer days. Tangy Chicken Salad can be quickly prepared in the morning or the evening before, eliminating the last-minute hassle of preparation. The taste is described as "creamy but tangy."

Tangy Chicken Salad
8 servings

Mold:

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 1 1/4 cups light cream or half and half
- 2 1/2 cups chicken broth
- 2 Tbsp. fresh lemon juice
- 1/4 tsp. grated lemon peel
- 1/4 tsp. salt
- 2 cups chopped cooked chicken
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 2 Tbsp. chopped pimiento
- 1 Tbsp. chopped chives
- 1/4 tsp. nutmeg
- Salad greens

- Dressing: (Yield: 1/4 cup)
- 1/4 cup sour cream
 - 1 to 2 tsp. fresh lemon juice
 - 1/4 tsp. salt
 - 2 Tbsp. sliced almonds

For mold, soften gelatin in light cream in a large saucepan; stir in chicken broth. Heat over low heat, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved. Stir in lemon juice, lemon peel and salt. Chill until jelly-like in consistency. Fold in chicken, celery, pimiento, chives and nutmeg; blend well. Pour mixture in a 6-cup mold. Chill several hours or overnight.

Dressing: Combine all ingredients in a small mixing bowl. Chill 1 to 2 hours to allow flavors to blend. To serve, unmold salad onto chilled, lettuce-lined plate; pass dressing.

Women, girls to convene

BELLE GLADE — The Seventy-second annual convention of the Florida Association of Women and Girls Club will convene in St. Petersburg, June 21 through 25 at the Bayfront Conference Hotel, 383 First Street South.

President Louise Johnson of Bradenton said this will be a very informative and exciting convention. Active participation of all Federated Clubs are encouraged because new officers will be elected during the business meeting.

... and whatnot

by Ailsa Dewing

After years of living a life which, although not spotless I can usually wear so the spots don't show, I suddenly find the stain of a new vice—gambling.

I've found me a new sort of gambling machine. One that always pays off. A goose stuffed with golden eggs. Although I have met the goose and she is me.

And along with the pay-off, I haven't had so much fun since I learned to add three-digit numbers in finger math (also known as something like Chi's in Bop, for those who can spell it).

The only problem is that every time I win I lose. But, Oh! The fun of it!

Every afternoon when I leave the office I tell myself I won't play again today. "You don't need it," I tell myself. "Do it for the fun of it," the imp in me nudges.

And so I do. I sidle up to the slotted window. Glance around to make sure I'm alone. Slip in my card key and whisper, "Open, Sesame."

There's a metallic whirr and the outer gate swings wide on the hidden treasure trail.

Then the game begins. "What's your secret number?" says the money machine.

That is the first question. Back and forth go the questions and answers until the moment of the big thrill when the sanctum sanctorum opens to reveal a row of crisp bills.

"Ah ha!" I chortle. "Won again."

And it's mine, all mine.

It really is, too. My gambling machine is the 24-hour bank teller and all that money I'm winning is coming out of my own checking account.

But I'm addicted to playing the money machine. Every time I resist an urge to jump up and down screaming like the winner on a tv game show.

I may have a solution. Call it abstinence, if you like. It will take fortitude. Probably more than the bank's bookkeeper has to spare. I might even be asked to take my banking business elsewhere.

But at this rate, the only way I can go on playing the machine is if I put the money back every time. Never! I won it and it's mine.

damage. Many people wonder how they can control love bugs and though most common chemicals will kill the adults, chemical control is not practical since love bugs occur over such a wide geographic area.

Love bugs have few natural predators and it seems that their population increases each year. Female love bugs lay approximately 300 eggs in decaying vegetation and the larvae feed on this gradually maturing into adults.

Very often you will see large buildups of love bugs around lawns or mulched areas since these provide a lot of organic material for the larvae.

Since love bugs do not sting or bite they are not a potential threat, but during the two-to-three-year mating flights they are quite a problem for drivers.

As mentioned above, restricting driving hours to times when they are less active will help, but their flights are generally over with in about one month and then we will be free of them until September.

money-saving IDEAS
Tips To Help You
Most air conditioners can make a room comfortably cool in about half an hour so it might be wise to install a timer, available at most hardware stores, to switch your unit on 30 minutes before you come home and turn it off when you leave.
You can save 28 to 40 percent on air conditioning energy bills when you remove dirt and grease buildup from your air conditioner's condensers and coils. According to one unit manufacturer, spraying on a cleaner such as Coil Magic dissolves oxidation, grease and dirt from the unit's coils and fins, increases heat transfer, and reduces the life of the unit.
